Italian Headquarters, Nov. 22.—The great masses attack which the enemy made is still in progress along the upper Piave river at a point where it bends into Bellunadella.

The enemy have the picked men of their army in this action, the picked troops from Prussia, some of the best troops from the western and Russian fronts and 20,000 engineers from lower Hungary, the latter noted for their brutal vandalism, are among the troops that are now attacking the Italians in this sector.

The action throughout yesterday has shifted from Monte Tomba and Monte Moutenera to the slopes of Monte Pertica where the enemy have been checked by the strong Italian fortifications.

The Italian position remains substantially the same in the region around Monte Grappa, which dominates the whole range of lower hills.

TOKIO PAPER URGES JAPAN TO SEND FIVE MILLION

Washington, Nov. 22.—The Mainichi, a leading newspaper of Tokyo, advocates sending a Japanese army of five million men through Siberia to the Russian front, should Russia make a separate peace and the Japanese government decide to send reinforcements to Europe.

"In case Russia makes a separate peace," says a Mainichi editorial, "the text of which has been cabled to Washington, or otherwise incapacitated to fight against the common enemies, the entire powers may think that there is no other way but to let Japan replace Russia in the battlefronts, and go against the Germans and Austrians in the eastern theatre of war."

"Grant that Japan will mobilize, it must be decided how many soldiers are to be sent, and what duties they are to perform."

"The Japanese powers seem to wish that in case Russia is altogether incapacitated for continuing the war, the Japanese army may be made to replace her altogether. Russia, at present has 5,400,000 men out, some of whom being in Siberia. About 5,000,000 men may be in the German and Austrian fronts. That many soldiers must be sent from Japan. But Japan has only 2,000,000 men as the war time strength of regulars and reserves combined. Three million men are lacking.

"This discrepancy must be filled by drafting from 3,000,000 or more of national guards. Then if 5,000,000 men are to be sent, some number of non-combatant men must be sent to accompany them. War materials as well as arms must be sent to accompany them. This will be a stupendous task. It will be far better to walk from here to Europe than to use the Siberian railway."

"When Genghis Khan invaded Europe he did not take so many men with him. But if Japan is to try the game at all, she must let 5,000,000 men go on foot to Siberia in ancient style. It may be a thrilling accomplishment to break the record made by General Genghis Khan. Indeed, if Japan dares to undertake the game, it will be a patch of the Baltic fleet to Japan at splendid things, more so than the time of the Russo-Japanese war. The undertaking may give a thrill to the hearts of the Germans."

BELIEF THAT MARSHAL WILL BE ELECTED

(By Associated Press)

Paris, Nov. 22.—Belief that Marshal Joffre would be the next person elected to the French academy has been entertained by the public for a number of months, but his reported dedication to follow the rule of the academy by announcing himself, as a candidate appears to create a situation resembling a deadlock.

"The 34 'immortals' now composing the academy are said to be unanimously in favor of Joffre as his first of the six new members to be elected. Everyone has talked about the eventuality—everyone but Joffre, and it appears to be essential that the recalcitrant hero of the Marne speak up if he wants to become an 'immortal.' It is a rule of the academy that aspirants for membership declare their candidacy, and it has been the tradition that they should call upon the members to solicit their votes, much in the same way as a candidate for a political office. This, Joffre has not done and it is said will not do.

"The marshal has never had any ambition to become an 'Academicien' said a close friend of Joffre. 'In fact, he asserts he has no right or title to the honor. Several of his friends have urged him to propose his candidacy, but he considers that there is no personal consideration in the matter, that if he were chosen it would simply be in honor of the army and that, consequently, personal speculations or expressions of personal preference in the matter are not in order.'"

TO TRAIN BOYS FOR MERCHANT MARINE LIFE

New York, Nov. 22.—Resolutions pledging their support towards the raising of a fund of $100,000 for the development of the work of the U. S. naval reserve in training American boys for the navy and merchant marine were adopted by leading shipping men at a luncheon here yesterday.

The organization, plans the establishment of nautical schools throughout the country, where boys will be prepared for the merchant marine in a three year course, two years to be spent on land and one at sea.

The speakers at the luncheon given by the National Marine League of the United States which is supporting the junior naval reserve movement, included W. S. Saunders, chairman of the naval consulting board; Felix M. Warburg, chairman of the joint distribution committee of the funds for Jewish war sufferers, and Congressman J. J. Fitzgerald, P. P. Ross, the president of the National Marine League, presided.

The necessity for training boys and young men for the merchant marine was emphasized by all the speakers. Statistics were read, showing that the need of the merchant marine officers and sailors, now acute, will become even worse when the ships now building in American shipyards are placed in commission.

Mr. Saunders said that the training of crews for the merchant marine would help in the fight being waged against submarines. "The submarine menace is still a menace," he said, "but since the United States entered the war, the entire allies have the first hand. I have supreme confidence that the United States, with the aid of Great Britain, will destroy the submarine menace."

Congressman Fitzgerald said that the need for training Americans for the merchant marine is paramount if the United States expects to re-establish her merchant marine. America's greatest competitor before the war was Great Britain, he said. "That country's to-for-ton policy, to make up the losses sustained in submarine warfare will still make her a powerful competitor after the war, the congressman declared."

Mr. Warburg advocated the establishment by the national government of a naval board of regents to direct the drafting of mechanically skilled men from the nation's industries to the engine room of ships.

W. L. Finch, a member of the U. S. junior naval reserve said that the organization now has enrolled more than 30,000 boys in various places throughout the country, where they are given instructions in naval matters in addition to their regular schooling.

Two large training camps are located at New London, Ct. and Corpus Christi, Texas. More than 100 members of the league have already been accepted by the United States navy.

THE IRISH KAISER

When the war is over Liddle, Just take a tip from me, There'll be no German submarines, A-Diving through the sea, For the fatherland of Kaiser Bill, The Guy we're going to lick, Will have a brand new Kaiser, And the same will be a Mick.

We'll change the song "Die Wacht am Rhein" Into an Irish Reel, And make the Germans dance it, If so inclined we feel, For the Police Force in Berlin, Will be Micks from County Clare, When we put an Irish Kaiser, In the Palace over there.

Sure, in every German Parkway, You will find a sweet Colleen, And the fields of waving Sauerkraut, We will plant with Shamrocks Green No more Liverwurst or Sauerkraut, When the German drinks his Sids, He will get Corned Beef and Cabbage And good old Irish Spuds.

The Heather Guns and Gas Bombs, We'll throw them all away, And make them use Shillalahs, Or Bricks of Irish Clay, They'll wear no Iron Crosses, Sure, 'tis Shamrocks they will wear, When we put an Irish Kaiser, In the Palace over there.

LIES THAT OUTRUN THE TRUTH

The American fleet has not been destroyed in battle. The American troop ships have not been attacked and sunk with heavy loss of human life.

The American secret service has not rounded up a hundred or a thousand German agents and quietly put them into graves at Fortress Monroe.

Joe Tumulty has not been arrested for treason and shot.

The British people are not starving to death. The American Red Cross is not paying fancy salaries to its officers, and it is not selling the scarfs, sweaters and pajamas our women are making for the soldiers.

It may also be reassuring to some credulous folk to know that Kitchener is not a prisoner in Germany, that Woodrow Wilson is not in the pay of Great Britain, that Nicholas Roumanoff is not living in New York, and that Edison has not invented an electrical contrivance which will blow up the world when he presses the button.

If the readers of newspapers will accept the news they read in the newspapers they will save themselves worry and excitement and they will miss nothing important. The rumor that travels from mouth to mouth, based on anonymous authority is almost invariably false.—From the Syracuse Post-Standard.

ISLAND MAY BECOME PART OF AUSTRALIA.

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 22.—"Kling" Watrinn of the Loyalty Islands, has returned from Flanders where he has been serving with the Australian Expeditionary Force, full of hope that the islands over which he claims kingship eventually will become a part of the dominion of Australia.

"While I was in England," he said, "I had interviews with A. Boner, Law and Walter Long of the British Government, and just now—on my way home—I have seen Mr. Hughes, the Prime Minister of Australia. From these gentlemen I have been given to understand that my beloved islands may yet come under the Commonwealth. I was informed by the British Government that the necessary arrangements had been made with France so we are but waiting until the end of the war."

"Kling" Watrinn was wounded with shrapnel while on service with the "Anzacs" in France.

WARNED AGAINST FIRES SET BY FOREIGN AGENTS

(By Associated Press)
Christiana, Nov. 22.—The Christiana police have officially warned the population that recent, mysterious fires are known to have been caused by foreign agents and urging all to be on their guard.

A communique issued by the police says:

"In connection with the recent mysterious fires, it is important that the following should be made known: A month ago a conversation took place in a railway station here between three German speaking people in which it was stated among other things that various persons were named only by letters of alphabet, had completed a magnificent piece of work and that they had visited several towns whose names were also mentioned only by letter. All the fires which have occurred recently were also discussed with great interest, and the German speaking people reckoned up having any further trouble over it. One of the men answered, 'It is time these Norwegians found out what it means to defy us. Let them see what happens when their own crops and stocks burn and those on the other side refuse new supplies.

"Then they talked about the German spy case in Bergen, and said that this little exposure did not matter much for a net was spun over the whole Norwegian coast, and even if it broke at any single point the net held all the same, thanks to the Norwegians' trustfulness. They added that the U-boats' work must be supported at any price, as it would bring a quick finish to the war. There was much further talk of certain journeys and of certain persons who had done great service for Germany.

The conversation was overheard and reported to the police."

In connection with this police statement the newspapers give a list of the fifteen mysterious fires referred to, and the financial loss in each case. The loss varies from about $8,000 kroner to 150,000. In the case of a fire at Sorengen, it is noted that "irreplaceable stores valued at many millions kroner were endangered."

PLENTY OF MEAT IN BRITISH ARMY RATIONS

(By Associated Press)
Behind British Lines in France, Nov. 21.—The British army ration scale allows one pound of meat to each man daily to the troops in the trenches, and three-quarters of a pound to those at home. It further requires each soldier at the front to carry a pound of meat in his kit.

The measures by which an army equal to one-fifth of the male population of Great Britain before the war has been supplied with meat on this scale amounts to something like a revolution in the technique of army supply. At the very beginning of the present war it was decided to supply frozen meat for the army and the board of trade at once entered into negotiations with firms importing meat from the Argentine for a monthly supply of 15,000 tons. Later a meat committee was set up and entrusted with the work of importing meat not only for the British army, but also for the French and Italian governments and for the British civil population.

The principal source of supply at present is the Argentine, with assistance from Australia and New Zealand. Both these countries have reserved their entire surplus supply of meat for the use of the imperial government and over $2,000,000 worth of beef, mutton and lamb have been brought from these countries.

To carry these enormous quantities of meat to the troops the board of trade requisitioned all the vessels in the frozen meat traffic. Some of the meat is taken to England but the greater part of that required for the army is landed directly at the base-ports where it is discharged into the cold storage warehouses, especially for the purpose. In this manner there is delivered monthly 30,000 tons of meat for the British armies and 25,000 tons to the armies of Great Britain and the allies.

The cost of this meat up to the beginning of 1916, varied at an average of about 12 1-2 cents a pound, but it has since risen to about 16 1-2 cents.

Regulation of fresh meat in France for army purposes is almost negligible and the herd of cattle which followed armies in old time wars, and were slaughtered as required have disappeared from the field of war.

Frozen meat at present constitutes sixty per cent of the total meat issued by the British army. The remainder is made up of preserved meat of several varieties. The most familiar form is the well known 'Bully beef', which is corned beef packed in oblong tins, each containing about twelve ounces. Some units cook their bully beef, others prefer it just as it comes from the tin. It comprises the principal article of diet for the armies of Gallipoli.

Another form of preserved rations is a combination of about nine ounces of meat and about a half a pound of potatoes and other vegetables. This is served after warming up, either by heating in the tin or by boiling the contents in a camp kettle, which transforms it into a fairly appetizing stew. This combination, which is known in army parlance as 'Meat and Vegetable Ration', is manufactured in England by about thirty firms, working under the inspection of the local government board.

Another form of preserved rations, adopted from the American armies, is pork and beans. The first supplies of these were obtained from the Canadian Pacific Railway company and were introduced on an experimental scale in March, 1916.

The amounts of canned meats supplied to the troops in France is enormous. Three and a half million cans are received weekly at the bases, and since the beginning of the war, the army contract department has purchased over 400,000,000 cans of preserved meat. The cans would weigh about 175,500 tons, roughly the equivalent weight of six super dreadnaughts.

COMPLETE NEW DRAFT

London, Nov. 22.—The National Executive of the Labor party has completed a draft of the new constitution of the party which will be presented at the conference at Nottingham in January.

It is proposed that the name of the party remain unchanged but that its scope be widened to include political interests of all producers, 'by brain or by hand', without distinction of class or occupation, and that it should be reorganized on the double basis of national societies and Parliamentary constituencies.

The societies eligible for affiliation will be as heretofore trade unions, Socialist organizations, and co-operative societies, but it is planned to add in each Parliamentary constituency a local Labor party, consisting of local branches of the affiliated societies and of individually enrolled members. It is planned that the party conference should remain the supreme governing authority of the party, declaring the general program (by two thirds majority) giving decisions on party policy and electing the National Executive of twenty members.

Objects of the party are:

"To organize and maintain in Parliament and in the country a political Labor party.

"To cooperate with the Labor organizations in other countries, to assist in organizing a federation of nations for the maintenance of freedom and peace and for the establishment of suitable machinery for the adjustment and settlement of international disputes by conciliation or judicial arbitration, and for such international legislation as may be practicable."

BATTLE STILL RAGES ON ITALIAN FRONT

Headquarters in Northern Italy, Nov. 21 (By the Associated Press).—The heavy fighting which began on Sunday in the north continues with great violence, centering on the slope of Mount Menera. Enemy masses alternate fierce artillery attacks with infantry assaults, which have been repulsed.

The battle is taking a wide range and gradually concentrating on three main fronts. It is not a question of gaining or losing kilometres, but it is a gigantic battle, in which Italy's part in the war, with its resultant effect on the Allies, is largely at stake.

The Austro-German offensive, which began three weeks ago, has not diminished, but is steadily intensifying. Frontal attacks thus far have failed on the Piave and the northern Asiago plain. This compels the enemy to attempt to make a breach by one of the Italian flanks, as the only resort after the checking of the frontal attacks. This explains the gradual shifting of the front to three main divisions: first, along the Piave; second, from the Piave to the Brenta; third, from the Brenta across the Asiago plateau.

The enemy's advance on the Piave, and the menace to Venice is fairly well checked after the bloody repulses of the last few days, but the Austrians and Germans are still on the east bank of the river, with formidable forces pressing against this narrow stream.

How Italians Were Tricked
Going to points along the Piave River, where the heaviest fighting has occurred, The Associated Press correspondent was told by officers of unusual circumstances connected with the engagements. The colonel commanding the Bersaglieri, who hurried the day, said the strategy which the Austrians attempted turned the tide against them.

In the night on the cemetery road it was suddenly observed early Saturday morning that a number of Austrians were coming toward the Italian lines with both hands held up, as though ready to surrender. For a moment it was believed the fight was over and that the enemy had capitulated. But it was then noticed that all the Austrian machine guns had been removed, and closer observations showed that behind this front line of men with their hands up followed lines with bayonets and machine guns.

The Italians let them come until the range was short and they were between two outlying lines. Then a deadly fire was opened on both sides and the Austrians were mowed down in heaps.

Then the Rout Began
It was then that the rout began. The Austrian resistance was broken. At Sogno XIII, where the enemy had a brief lodgment, he was forced back until he was driven to the brink of the river and then into the water. The Austrians were bayoneted and killed or captured.

A colonel eighteen miles farther down the river told of a similar fight when the Austrians attempted to cross in boats, from their positions near Calveccchia.

"Our men are absolutely determined," he said, "their determination to hold the railroad line is based on experience. You should have seen them yesterday when the Austrians tried to cross in boats, right there," he added, pointing to the stretch where the river widens. "Our men remained silent while they saw the boats loading and going to midstream. Then they opened with machine guns and rifles. The boats and men were torn to pieces before they got another twenty feet. Not a man was left alive, and all the boats sank. No, you may depend upon it, they will never pass."

The appearance of the men fully confirmed the colonel's estimate of their determination. They looked to be in perfect condition, with that fine calm and confidence which comes from

GERMANS MUST REGISTER

Washington, Nov. 21.—Today is the last that natives of Germany, who have not obtained their final naturalization papers and who have come to Washington since war was declared April 6, may remain in this city. Germans whose residence at the National capital antedates the war declaration will have until Dec. 15 to pack up their goods and go away.

After midnight tonight every German remaining here against these orders will be arrested and held for indictment. Every German leaving today and Germany leaving Washington between now and Dec. 15 must report to the authorities where they are going and must report also to the federal marshal of the district to which they go.

Police instructions today directed that ignorance of the President's proclamation will be no excuse for an alien enemy to delay complying with it. There was a rush today of unnaturalized Germans to the courts for information as to their status. Those who had taken out their first papers but had not completed the naturalization process have to quit Washington the same as those who have taken no steps at all. About 300 Germans, mostly waiters and mechanics, left yesterday, and the exodus continued today.

The officer gave the correspondent an opportunity to go along the defenses at this point, which are highly important as a part of the works encircling Venice. It was not a pleasant experience, as shells were tearing the air and there was a steady rattle from the sharpshooters. Immediately along the west bank of the river ran an earthen breastwork. It was a terrific tangle for the enemy to face if he ever got across.

From a loophole the Piave could be seen spreading out below with the Austrian lines on the eastern bank. The flash of the enemy's rifles came from windows of farmhouses and from the low bushes along the shore and the sound of their bullets showed that they were striking very near.

Heavy Fire From Fleet
Passing through the Mestre, three miles from Venice, a heavy rumble of bombardment was heard from the fleet and the Venice coast batteries. Deep detonations could be distinguished about every five seconds, and then the salvo of many guns, sounding like a broadside.

Farther on the correspondent passed one of the royal palaces overlooking the Brenta Canal, which here is as wide as the Thames, with a stately high bank. The king was not there, being at headquarters, whence he makes daily visits to the front, moving about quietly and modestly.

The roads were no longer blocked with refugees. The civilians have recovered from their first panic. Many women and children just back of the Piave have been under a rain of shells. Officers said the Austrians were not shelling the houses of peasants, hoping to make use of them, but that if the Piave line held definitely the enemy would end the present security of the peasants by destroying all houses and crops and laying the region waste.

Dangerous Tendencies Pointed Out.

In a recent public address Henry G. Wells, president of the Massachusetts Senate, touched on several matters that should be of wide public interest. He believes that, as this paper has more than once insisted, the drift in legislation in this country is to a certain extent in the wrong direction. He maintains that there is a place in public life for the conservative type of mind and that the progressive spirit of the age leads often times to hasty and ill-advised action which we rue only when it is too late. He believes in government by the people, but wants to be sure that legislation really has the backing of a majority of the people, or of an intelligent minority.

Among other evils which Mr. Wells recognizes in American government is a tendency toward the encroachment of the executive upon the legislative branches. "Executives are being held responsible for the actions of Legislatures and of Congress," he said, and went on to point out that no executive can sense the pulse of the public as well as the representatives elected by the people. For this reason he feels that the distinction between the duties of executives and legislative bodies should be maintained as it was in the beginning.

Thoughtful men will recognize the soundness of Mr. Wells' judgment in this matter. For some years the executive power has been encroaching on the legislative to an extent which has become more or less disturbing to many. The president "jams" favorite measures through Congress, and many governors emulate his example to the best of their ability. We are constantly hearing of "administration measures," in the Legislatures and in Congress, and of legislators and congressmen being "whipped into line" in support of them.

Another danger which Senator Wells recognizes is the attempt to regulate all things by legislation. "We have too many laws," he says. "In 1914 more than 900 laws were passed in Massachusetts, and hundreds go into effect every year. Lawyers themselves can't keep up with the increase in regulations."

This is exactly in line with what we have repeatedly pointed out. The country seems to be legislation mad. There is a too prevalent idea that legislation is the panacea for every evil of every nature, and the result is a never-ending stream of laws flowing out from Congress and the state Legislatures, which cumber the statute books, and many of which amount to little or nothing in the way of practical regulation.

There is altogether too much of this sort of thing. The present may not be a good time to discuss reform, but with the return of normal conditions this subject should receive the attention of the American people and some radical changes should be brought about before it is too late.

Federal district attorneys have been instructed to prosecute vigorously all persons violating any of the price rulings made by the president and the fuel administrator. This is all right so far as it goes, but most communities are unable to see where the dealers should have any quarrel with the prices that have been made for them.

The Chamber of Commerce Credit Bureau will soon be in working order and there is reason to believe it will result in greatly improved conditions in the commercial affairs of this city. The general features of the plan have been presented in this paper, and to them no honest person can reasonably object.

In no city are the Red Cross women busier than in Portsmouth, or doing better work. The women here have taken their duties seriously, and what they are doing for the boys at the front will add greatly to their comfort and contentment in a life that none but soldiers can know.

An outbreak of scarlet fever in Kittery means that the health authorities of this city must stand rigidly on guard until the danger is past. Kittery is a near neighbor and trouble of this character there means danger here.

A report that the Germans are preparing to plant crops in Italy would indicate that they do not intend to get out right away. But there may be important changes in the situation before harvest time.

One Massachusetts city has decided that its public laborers shall be paid not less than $3 a day after December 1. And yet the workmen will probably keep right on howling about the cost of living.

Practically all wholesale and large retail grocers are now under United States permits. And they should bear in mind that these are not permits to rob the public.

COMPLETE D'SAULLES JURYMEN

Mrs. De Saulles Will Be First Witness for the Defence.

(By Associated Press)

Mineola, N. Y., Nov. 22.—The selection of jurors for the trial of Mrs. Blanca DeSaulles, who is charged with the murder of her husband, John L. DeSaulles, former Yale athlete and New York club man, on August 3, was completed today at noon.

The drawing of the jury required the questioning of 136 tallies and has required the first three and one-half days of the trial. The jury was immediately sworn in.

The prosecutor stated today that he will have completed the examination of state witnesses by tomorrow afternoon. One of the attorneys for Mrs. DeSaulles stated that Mrs. DeSaulles herself would be the first witness on the stand for the defence.

The defence for the Chittani beauty will be that she was not mentally responsible when she shot and killed her husband.

Wants a War Manager.

(From the Iron Trade Review)

A momentous question is before the President; it is not a sensational matter but it may mean the difference between success and failure of administration of the resources of the war. War is the opposition of brain against brain as well as of steel against steel. Modern warfare is conducted along scientific lines; but science alone cannot win. Science must have the backing of business ability of the highest quality in this land of big business. Business means co-ordinated industry directed by established system which comes only from years of development. To have co-ordinated industry it must have for its leaders men trained in the school of great constructive business development. It has been demonstrated repeatedly that in war the fewer the leaders the better and more effective are the results. The war industries board apparently has had too many leaders who have not been trained that way, trying to co-ordinate the work which in many respects is duplicated in the Army and Navy. It is clearly a one-type job and requires a real man to run it. The resignation of the competent late chairman brings this point home. The ill health that caused the resignation was ill health caused by lack of team work. One man can't be a team but he can, properly seated, drive a team and obtain team work. The President should answer this question by indicating to Congress the wisdom of centralizing responsibility in operating the war machine and put the board on a plane worthy of the business it must direct. Perhaps this can be best effected through creation of a Cabinet office for the period of the war to control the manufacture and distribution of munitions.

Governmental Sleepiness

(From the Portland Oregonian)

The greatest proof of governmental somnolence is the handling of the labor question. The Government knew when war was declared that the I. W. W. was spread through the country, a sedition organization ready to the hand of the swarms of German secret agents, yet it did nothing until that conspiracy had well nigh paralyzed the lumber and copper mining industries of the West and had bred forests and mills. Though the leaders have been arrested, new ones have taken their places and continue their treasonable activity. No effective steps are taken to follow them, put them under restraint and force them to work, but easy-going courts pass them along from town to town. That is not the way to stamp out sedition. It only sets Judge Lynch to work, as in Oklahoma and Bufile.

It has been the same in the Government's dealings with the regular labor unions. Though it was obvious to the smallest intellect that continuous operation of every essential industry was necessary, and that the German agents would redouble their efforts to provoke strikes, nothing was done at the start except to agree on some general principles with Samuel Gompers. No effort was made to bind the local labor leaders to observe those principles, and no provision was made for adjustment of disputes until strikes had broken out. When lumber production was curtailed and shipbuilding was stopped, there was shameful delay in bringing about settlement, and the Government, which should have prevented these troubles, tried to pass the buck to the harassed employers. The Government is still cursed with the habit of side-stepping and cajoling in fear of making political enemies.

The Dutch Lose Holland.

(From the Lewiston Journal)
The Danes and the Norwegians, as well as the Dutch, are paying dearly for sacrificing patriotism to Kaiserism. Norway has lost 660 vessels in the ruthless U-boat campaign. Since days when the pilgrims found refuge in Holland, Dutch character has greatly deteriorated.

Let Russia Alone

(From the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot)

The safest policy for those nations which have already suffered so much by Russia's defection from the common cause, in search of strange gods and worship of false idols, is to let her suffer the full consequences of her perfidy until suffering has brought her to her senses and she has given evidence of deserving a renewal of trust. Aims of low selfishness, a craven desire to shirk perils and privations, lured her people from the straight path which her allies are still heroically treading. She has added incalculably to their burdens. Her defection is responsible to the avalanche of Hunns now pouring down on the Italian plains. Unfortunately some of the heaviest consequences of her craven turpitude must fall on the shoulders of others, but the innocent victims may in all justice and will, if wise, withdraw from her a trust so flagrantly abused and repudiate a fellowship which rests on no mutuality of feeling or purpose. She has rendered to Germany in a critical hour services of inestimable value. Her desertion has, for the time being, turned the tide of success. She has forfeited all claim to lenient judgment. If Germany is the Ishmael among nations Russia has played the part of Judas. That she is impotent for good, brought to that condition by her own suicidal course, is no reason why she should be furnished with further chance to do further mischief. She is joined to the idols that brought ostracism on Ephraim. Let her alone!

They Have the Right Spirit.

The clerical force of the Industrial department at the local yard are praising and admiring the patriotism of two of the young men in the office for their attempt to join the ranks of Uncle Sam's fighting forces. However, minor defects in a rigid physical examination was the cause keeping their fighting blood down.

Considerable furniture for the new office addition of the Industrial department provided by contract has arrived at the local yard.

Died in Ireland.
Assistant Surgeon Dudley W. Queen, attached to the destroyer Cassin, which was damaged by a German torpedo, died in Ireland yesterday. A dispatch to the navy department today announcing his death, gave no details. Dr. Queen, a native of Grainger, Tex., joined the naval reserve last May.

Will Be Transport.
The U. S. S. Southern and Topoka will be repaired and made ready for transport service.

More Room for Prisoners.
The navy department has under consideration a plan for construction of additional temporary quarters for court martial men including those now on the Southern. It is expected that more permanent quarters will later be constructed for these men.

The extent of the sugar shortage can well be illustrated by the following: A local merchant received 40 two-pound packages from the wholesalers yesterday. When he came to distribute the sugar he found that he had over 400 names on the waiting list for this staple food article.

BROUGHT BACK TO THIS CITY AND DISCHARGED

Police Have Only One More to Locate in the Round-Up.

John Hill, a Russian, who was arrested by Chief Hurley of the police department, on a charge of avoiding the war draft, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Hodgman in Concord on Wednesday. The evidence in the case satisfied the authorities that the man was in ignorance of the matter. He claimed that he had been within the city limits all the time and worked on two different farms. He had never been naturalized and said that no mail from the war board had ever reached him. The commissioner held a conference, with United States District Attorney Brown and Hill was ordered to be taken back to the local war board. After learning all the facts in the case the board discharged him as an alien.

The disposition of Hill leaves only one more man for the police to locate on the list sent out from the United States marshal's office. Of the original list to round up the police learn that Harold A. Marston is in the service in France, James McRea Robinson is located in the Canadian army and Henry A. Patch has joined the navy.

EXETER STUDENT DESCRIBES WAR

Frank M. Kelley Tells of Experiences on French Front.

Exeter, Nov. 22.—Frank N. Kelley of Duluth, Minn., a former student and athlete at the academy, is making a visit to Exeter, coming direct from the trenches. Mr. Kelley brings with him many stories of interesting experiences of the affairs at the front, and also photographs and souvenirs.

Probably some of the most valued and interesting souvenirs are bullets which were extracted from him after he was wounded, and is thus unfit for duty and was granted a 30 days' leave. Mr. Kelley also wears a medal which was awarded him by the French government for bravery. This he wears concealed, for he bears his honors with modesty. He tells many stories of the warfare "over there," which would doubtless be censored for publication. He intends to return as soon as his wounds will allow him to. Mr. Kelley is probably the first man from the trenches to visit Exeter and tell the interesting stories of the great world war. While at the academy he was captain of the crew.

Washington, Nov. 22.—Red Cross material lost in transit to France through the sinking of ships by submarines would be replaced under a plan recommended by the Red Cross by the Beeville, Texas chapter. The proposal met with instant favor of Red Cross officials, it was announced today, as it would assure an uninterrupted supply of materials for the expeditionary force.

"DIVIDENDLESS DAYS"

"We have meatless days and wheatless days, why would it not be appropriate to have some 'dividendless days'?"

This question was submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission in a brief opposing the application of the railways for permission to advance their rates.

It is significantly characteristic of much of the so-called argument presented to the commission in opposition to the appeal of the railways for relief. Owners of a large proportion of the country's railways have suffered not merely dividendless days but dividendless months and dividendless years—and conditions are steadily growing more unfavorable.

The gross takings of the roads as a result of the war traffic have greatly increased but the cost of supplies and wages have increased in greater ratio. By way of commentary on the recent prattle about "dividendless days," take the hard cold figures showing what the roads are earning and spending.

In the month of September the gross earnings of 455 roads, comprising very nearly the entire mileage of the country, as compiled by the Financial Chronicle, were ten per cent larger than in the corresponding month of last year, while operating expenses increased 20 per cent; so that the net earnings were nearly eight million dollars smaller.

For nine months ending with Sept. an increase of $324,000,000 in gross earnings was converted by the greater expenses into a decrease of $16,000,000 in the net. In face of such an exhibit it seems foolish to waste time in long-winded "hearings" as to whether the railways need an increase of revenues or in listening to frivolous suggestions of "dividendless days."

The roads are owned by myriad American shareholders and their bonds are held by insurance companies and savings banks which have invested in them the money of numberless policy holders and depositors of very moderate means. Of all the instrumentalities for winning the war, the railways are the most essential and to establish and maintain efficient service they need and must have increased revenues.

"Dividendless days"? The subject is of interest so vital that it will not admit of jesting. It calls for prompt action in the form of an increase in rates.—From the New York Herald.

VOTES WILL CONTROL POLITICS

(By Associated Press)

London, Nov. 22.—Co-operators who number many millions and who have heretofore concerned themselves in commercial movements have decided to use their votes and influence in politics and other directions. At the conclusion of a conference which has been sitting several days, it was decided to form a political party and to seek direct representation in parliament and on local municipal and administrative bodies.

The conference unanimously adopted a plan of industrial, social and economic reform, which included the following aims:

- Exercising direction by the state of processes of production, distribution and exchange.
- Elimination by legislative action of profiteers and other speculators.
- Compulsory housing.
- An educational system on national lines, affording equal opportunity for higher education for all.
- Effective parliamentary control of foreign policy.
- Abolition of food taxes.
- Scientific development of agriculture.
- Democratization of state services.
- Establishment of a state bank and a national credit bank to facilitate the development of trade.
- Gradual demobilization corresponding with the needs of employment.

Buffalo, Nov. 21.—The American Federation of Labor went on record today as favoring the deportation of all alien in the United States who refuse to enlist here or under their own flag.

During the two-hour debate of this resolution Delegate Black of Toronto denounced the United States conscription law as "that dastardly act" and brought upon himself a stinging reply from President Gompers.

Edward F. McGrady, president of the Central Labor Union of Boston, today introduced a resolution adopted by the Federation, asking that Congress be instructed to pass immediately on reconvening legislation to provide for the conscription of all aliens of allied countries into the national army.

The resolution, which was intended to bring such aliens within the conscription law, was received most favorably and passed almost unanimously.

THESE MEN KNOW HOW TO SHOOT STRAIGHT

(By Associated Press)

Camp Devens, Ayer, Nov. 21.—Judged by the standard of efficiency in the line of marksmanship advocated by General Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary force, and characterized by him as the most important detail in the training of the men of the new National Army, the soldiers of the Seventy-Sixth Division are destined to take a highly important place in the operations upon French soil.

Moreover, according to the expressed belief of the officers of this camp, who watched the result of the first target practice that has taken place here, the surprising performance of these men, many of whom had never before fired a rifle, furnishes another link in the chain of circumstances which is drawing the division nearer and nearer to a realization of its purpose for which it was enlisted. In other words, if the performance of the men of the 76th infantry on the target ranges yesterday is duplicated by the other regimental units, the last obstacle to the early embarkation of the division for foreign service will have been removed, and the necessary training in marksmanship will be of comparatively short duration.

Made High Scores

With a score of 50 the highest one possible, man after man of the more than 2000 assembled for the first try at the targets clipped off a score of more than 40, while those that fell below a total of 35 were so scarce as to be a negligible quantity. In this connection it should be borne in mind that the day was not one conducive to accurate shooting. The air was exceedingly cold and the handling of the guns, in such an atmosphere, caused a numbness of bare hands and fingers that must naturally have had its effect.

The firing was all done from the 100-yard line, the shortest one on the range, but also the one best adapted to a practical demonstration of what the men will be called upon to do in actual service. Each man in the regiment was scheduled for a round of ten shots and, while hardly more than half of them were given the opportunity to show what they could do, as bulls-eye after bulls-eye was scored, the watching officers added their heads with ever increasing satisfaction.

General Hodges Astonished

A line of fifty targets was used and the men who did not have an opportunity to shoot yesterday are on the range today and giving an equally creditable account of themselves. When they have finished the 76th will be brought to the range and so on through the infantry line.

Lieutenant Colonel C. A. Romeyn, range master, with Major General Harry F. Hodges, camp commander, watched the demonstration with ever increasing satisfaction at the proficiency displayed.

"I am astonished at the performance of these men," said General Hodges. "Many of them who, I am informed, have never fired a gun in their lives, are shooting like veterans and as soon as the nervousness due to the novelty of the situation wears off they will establish some worth-while records. I have no misgivings as to the way they will acquit themselves over there after they have completed the schedule of firing practice here."

There are, altogether, 200 targets on the new range, and the fact that only a part of the first detail of men was enabled to fire yesterday was due to the signal system between firing pit and target, but not being completed and in working order.

BRITISH SMASH THE HINDENBURG LINE

(By Associated Press)

The great Hindenburg defense line upon which the great German commander has built his hopes of keeping the French and British forces in check has been smashed and the task apparently did not appear to be a very heavy one.

Attacking along a front of thirty-two miles, extending from the Scarpe river east of Arras to St. Quentin, Field Marshal Haig with his English, Irish, Scotch and Welsh troops has made one of the most rapid and spectacular drives of the entire war. It caught the Germans unprepared and they gave way without much resistance.

Thousands of prisoners were captured as the British forces headed by the great tanks followed by the infantry swept over the first line trenches, the big tanks ploughing their way through the wire entanglement opening a path for the infantry.

The apex of the offensive centered on the important railroad town of Cambrai, lying east of the old line.

The latest advice is that the British have not ceased their advance but are still driving ahead. The attack was made without any great preliminary artillery barrage and the casualties are reported as exceedingly light, while those of the Germans are very heavy, the ground over which the English had advanced being covered with their dead.

To the south of St. Quentin in the Alsace region the French have begun an offense.

The latest advice from the British front is that they have penetrated the German line to a depth of five miles, and in some places more than that distance, beyond the first line trenches.

The offense was under the immediate command of Lieut. General Julian H. G. Glyn and it was witnessed by General Pershing, U. S. N., the commander of the American force, who was the guest of the general staff.

In the meanwhile the Italians are still holding the Teutonic invaders along the Piave river and at no point from the mouth to the upper hilly country about Lake Garda have the Austro-Germans been able to make any advance.

In the Palestine the British are steadily closing in on Jerusalem and General Allenby's forces last night had driven the Turks back to within five miles on the northwest and six miles on the north.

SUGAR SHORTAGE RELIEVED BY SEIZURE

(By Associated Press)

New York, Nov. 21.—The sugar shortage in New York and New England will be relieved some by the seizure today by Food Inspector Holt, of 10,000 tons of sugar bought by the last Provisional government of Russia. He also stated that there are twenty-five car loads of western beet sugar on the way to Boston.

AMERICANS LEAVING PETROGRAD

(By Associated Press)

Petrograd, Nov. 21.—Eighteen Americans left Petrograd today in a special car, attached to the Siberian express, on their way to the United States. They are the first of the Americans to leave the capital owing to its unsettled condition.

THE PRICE OF PEACE

(By George E. Bowen of the Vigilantes)

"Rightfulness is not the creation of imaginative, pro-ally journalists. It is integral with the German method of attaining the domination of the whole world."

"Sex-rapacity has free rein in the Hun scheme of things. I went over there wondering if it were true that German soldiers had cut off the breasts of a Belgian woman. I know now that it has been done not once, but scores of times. I know that it is the ruthless, fearful hallmarks of the German social parish who dare not, under penalty of death, transmit this unspeakable malady to one of the camp women following his own regiment."

"Then, that others in uniform of the Hun may know and heed the warning, they mutilate these outraged women and girls. They are emulated strikingly and fearfully, and even the Germans drunk upon champagne and careless of consequences cannot disregard the warning."—From published interview with Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis—Pastor of Plymouth Church, of Brooklyn.

Mark of the Beast on a woman's breast—
More, do you ask as a final test? Mother or sister, daughter, wife—
Yours, for the monster that feeds on life.

Prayers of the stricken—what would you—
For a woman torn by a tiger do? Daughter of yours, sweetheart, maybe, With German hate for her life's last plea.

Mark of the Beast—have you even thought Of your very own by its passion caught!

Torn and trampled and left to die— Is peace for horror your one reply? Tears of women that turn to blood, North German heeds in the lowland mud.

God in Heaven! Can such things be While men, once human, in peace walk free?

Mark of the Beast on your lover's breast, German hate for your darling's guest. Are you a man or a crawling thing Too low for the anger of shame to sting?

Listen, men, (while their form you keep) Is your heart a stone? Is your soul asleep?

Hark! There is vengeance in the air— Vengeance of God, for your strength to share.

Mark of the Beast on the world's fair breast—
Aches and ruin and all the rest.

A PORTSMOUTH INTERVIEW

Mr. Pickles Tells His Experience.

The following, brief account of an interview with a Portsmouth man over five years ago, and its sequel, will be read with keen interest by every citizen.

James Pickles, 129 Burkett St., Portsmouth, says: "I was afflicted with kidney trouble for several years. The pain in my back was terrible and often sharp stitches so cramped me that I could scarcely move. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and contained sediment like brick-dust. During the night, I was obliged to get up to pass the secretions. Although I tried various medicines, I was unable to get relief until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills procured at Phillips' Pharmacy. They helped me from the first and a couple of boxes cured me."

(Statement given June 26, 1911.)

THE RESULTS LATER.

On October 20, 1915, Mr. Pickles said: "You are welcome to use the recommendation I gave Doan's Kidney Pills in 1911. This medicine has given me permanent results."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Pickles has twice publicly recommended. Rosier-Milburn Co., Prop., Buffalo, N. Y.

Wake! While manhood has force to slay. The brute that laughs at our women pray.

Days of terror and lust and hate! Do we pray of peace while the tortured wait? Mark of the Beast on a woman's breast—
Must never scars for our souls be best?

FIND REMEDY FOR PEAR BLIGHT

Tokio, Nov. 22.—It is reported that Dr. F. C. Reimer, American pomologist and Director of the Agricultural Experiment Station in Oregon, has discovered a probable remedy for pear blight. Dr. Reimer came to Japan about a month ago and has spent his time in searching for a primitive variety of pear which would be immune to blight. It is stated that this was discovered near Yokohama. The plant is strong and not used for fruit but, by grafting it is hoped that it can be used to exterminate the blight.

A LETTER

Dear Madam: Every well dressed woman knows that the success of her Fall Suit depends on the correctness of style. Perfect fit, becoming color shades, and the wearing qualities of fabrics. My reduction for all of these is too well established to be further mentioned. Nevertheless I invite your kind inspection of my latest models, fashions and fabrics in order that you may have an opportunity to convince yourself of the correctness of this statement. I am sure that a trial order would result in mutual satisfaction. Replying of all kinds of furs. Yours truly, The Philadelphia Ladies' Tailor, (M. Schwartz, Prop.) RAILROADS DID THEIR WORK WELL

"Troop movement figures to date indicate that the railroads of this country have safely transported approximately 1,500,000 soldiers to training camps and embarkation points since August first. Five hundred thousand of these men have made journeys necessitating overnight travel and have been moved in tourist or standard sleepers furnished by the Pullman Company. On one of the long hauls 5,000 men were moved from a training camp on the western coast to a point on the eastern coast a distance of 3,700 miles in a little less than a week. The men travelled in sixteen sections each section comprising 12 tourist cars and 22 baggage cars.

In order to centralize the furnishing of sleeping cars at points most convenient to the Government and to utilize these cars to the best advantage the Pullman Company changed the supervision of the supply and movement of these cars from the Headquarters of the Company at Chicago to Washington where they stationed Mr. C. W. Henry, assistant superintendent to the superintendent of Car Service. Mr. Henry in his Headquarters at the Offices of the Railroads' War Board has been in daily touch with the office of the Quartermaster General and on receipt of requests from military authorities for sleeping car equipment has been that the cars were rushed at once to the points. As a result of this cooperation between the Government, the Railroads and the Pullman Company half a million soldiers have been spared the discomforts of making long train trips in day coaches.

To assure the safety of the men in transit the Railroads have adopted an average speed of 25 miles an hour for all troop trains except when freight cars needed for the transportation; to 20 miles an hour."

same name, which is taking rank as one of the six "best sellers" of the last two or three years. As those who have read the book recall, its theme is now agitating this country from one end to another, and is generally referred to as eat-and-grow thin.

All of the agents are situated in New York City, and the gowns of the women represent "the last cry" in smart designs.

The title role will be played by Alma Tell, one of the two beautiful and talented Tell Sisters. Mr. James L. Crane, who recently scored in "The Raven," will play the leading masculine part, and Maude Turner Gordon, Nellie Philmore, Evelyn Duncan, Gladys Wilson, Freeman Wood, George S. Trimble, Harry Davenport and Jeannette Norton will be found in the cast.

GLOBE THEATRE.

"Her Unborn Child," the drama which began its engagement last Monday at the Globe Theatre, Boston, has created a profound impression upon local theatregoers, because of the sincerity in which the spoken drama treats a subject that admits of the widest discussion.

There is no mistaking the lesson to be conveyed in "Her Unborn Child." It is that the influence of the good, true and self-denying mother, was never so great a necessity as in these present times; that the candor which at no distant period was considered objectionable to the polite ear, and which under no circumstances should invade the drama or printed page, is now sought as a preventative of instead of an incentive to danger.

The personages of this play are of the ordinary well bred sort of respectable people. It is among these people and it is in this class which a prominent French philosopher declared germinate the ripest forms of human drama; that the family firesides are nurseries of true and vital drama.

During its engagement at the Globe Theatre there will be daily matinees for ladies only, when a discourse upon "Motherhood" will be given. The seats for this engagement are popularly priced.

PARK SQUARE THEATRE.

The final week of the most delightful musical comedy which has been Boston this season is announced, and it will have its final performances at the Park Square Theatre, Saturday, Dec. 1. There is bound to be general regret at the brevity of the stay of this pliant musical comedy which was written by Channing Pollock and Renold Wolf with music by Louis A. Hirsch. In a season not half through, which has been notable for delightful musical attractions, "The Grass Widow" has been pronounced by press and public as being the best that has been offered. And the Boston theatre goers have responded to its appeals most enthusiastically. As there are but few remaining performances those desirous of witnessing it should act at once. The seats are on sale for all remaining performances including the extra "Thanks-giving day matinee. Mail orders will be carefully filled, and it is urged that all letter orders should be accompanied by stamped and addressed envelope, the war tax of 10 per cent being also considered. It is with the greatest pleasure that the announcement is made that the attraction to follow at the Park Square theatre beginning Monday, Dec. 3, is Oliver Morosco's sensational comedy success, "Upstairs and Down," which ran all of last season at the Cort Theatre, New York, and has occupied the stage at the Cort Theatre, Chicago, since last August.

TREMONT TEMPLE.

Of all the distinguished foreign visitors who have been touring this country the past year, none is deserving of greater interest than Sir George Reid, member of the British Parliament and former High Commissioner of Australia, who will give his famous lecture, "America and World Democracy," at the Tremont Temple, Boston, Tuesday evening, Nov. 27. He appears under the auspices of the British Imperial Relief Fund of New England in connection with the American Red Cross.

Pronounced by Mr. Asquith "one of the foremost statesmen of the British empire," and with a long record of political achievement in Australia where he was both Prime Minister and High Commissioner, being elected to the British House of Commons while acting as High Commissioner in 1915, his addresses have a weight that will readily be appreciated, especially during the present crisis when Anglo-American relationships are particularly close and warm.

But aside from these qualifications there is the further one of his being pronounced a brilliant talker and story-teller. Sir Henry, Lucy, (Toby of London "Punch"), describes him as "the best after-dinner speaker in London." Gentle by nature and a confirmed optimist, his views of men, of nations and human progress are of that hopeful brand that gives new zest to life.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

The construction of the bills at the Castle Square Theatre continues to appeal most forcibly to the lovers of the best in photoplays and of good music. The combination of a concert program with a bill of motion pictures is a novel one in New England, such classes of entertainment having found great favor abroad. But with the recognized majority of discriminating Boston theatregoers, the Castle Square is enjoying renewed popularity. For the coming week there is an excellent holiday bill.

In the concert program there will appear Ruth Ellery, solo violinist; and John Smeethman, baritone, each giving two numbers at every performance. These, in addition to the playing of Jurvis Jocelyn, who gives solo numbers as well as plays the accompaniments to the pictures on the piano and chorale. These artists change their offerings with the midweek change of bills on Thursday.

The photoplay bill for the first half of the week will include the News pictures, a Mutt & Jeff cartoon comedy, a Country Life Series Film "Satin and Calico," and the feature photoplay, "The Tar Heel Warrior," picturing Wall Whitman as an old plantation owner bent with debts, who seeks to recoup his fortunes by investing money entrusted to him by another. The method he seeks for return is the Stock Exchange, and a reversal of values makes him a loser, but a fortunate turn of fate saves him from disgrace. Through it all runs a delightful love story between the old man's grandchildren.

The Thursday change will bring for the film bill another News picture, a new Mutt & Jeff comedy cartoon, a Burton Holmes travel picture, a George Ade Fable, and Mary Pickford in "The Little Princess."

"FAMOUS SCULPTOR IS DEAD"

Havre, Nov. 22.—Count Jacques de Lalonde, the famous Belgian Sculptor and painter, is dead. News of his death in a small family hotel at Brussels following a long illness has just been received here. Count de Lalonde was president of the Royal Museum Commission of Belgium. His best known works are the rural decorations of the Senate chamber and the grand staircase in the City Hall of Brussels, the monument, to English soldiers in the cemetery at Evers, the equestrian statue at the end of Avenue Louise in Brussels and the handsome paintings in the museum of Gand and Brussels.

GUARD ALL DAMS ALONG MEGUNTICOOK STREAM

Bangor, Nov. 21.—Acting on reports last night that all the dynamite stored at the Lime Rock quarry between Camden and Rockport had been stolen, guards were stationed at all the dams on the Megunticook stream to prevent any attempts to blow them up.

Eight manufacturing plants located on the stream would be affected by any mishap to the dam.

TAXATION ON BRITISH SHIPS A HANDICAP

(By Associated Press)

London, Nov. 22.—"The taxation put upon British ship owners, the differential treatment of the assessed profits, will prove a hopeless handicap to British shipping after the war," asserts Frank H. Houlder, chairman of the Houlder Steamship Line in the Pall Mall Gazette. "Shipping," he adds, "will, as a result pass very largely into the hands of the Americans, Japanese and Scandinavian neutrals. Japan already has large building resources and has been turning out ships in increasing numbers for several years past."

Mr. Houlder said that America had been forced to become a nation where-in great shipbuilding activities are needed to meet the position created by the war. "Financiers will find the necessary incentive to assist and immensely develop American shipping which will inevitably go ahead with a rush," he said, "so that we may certainly look for much competition on the part of the United States."

"The British Government is now building ships itself and if the state intends to run standardized vessels on its own account, no sane shipowner is going to build any more ships to run in competition with the Government, which is indifferent to profit or losses. "It is a question whether the standardized ship is worth the extra money spent on her extra speed. That is to say, whether there is a commensurate return on the extra capital involved."

"There is no doubt the Germans have made the greatest effort to capture the Brazilian and Argentine trade. Both republics have been among their favorite markets, especially Argentina, where there are a great number of German wool and grain firms, whose business in normal times is to supply the Fatherland with these commodities."

WANT BASE BALL PLAYERS EXEMPT

(By Associated Press)

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 21.—Exemption for 283 base ball players is for each of the 13 clubs in the major leagues, will be asked of the war department, said President Ban Johnson this evening. He declared that indiscriminate drafting of the men would ruin the game as the public demand first class men in the major leagues.

He said that the American league would play a schedule of 140 games instead of 164 as had been the rule, the season to open about May first or three weeks later than usual.

THIRTY COWBOYS STARTLE BROADWAY

Shouting like Indians, with their horses' hoofs bending a stagecoach as they galloped at top speed right down the middle of Broadway, the main business thoroughfare of Los Angeles, shortly after noon last Saturday, with the usual shopping crowd augmented by thousands of people who had turned out to witness a patriotic parade, a score of Universal City cowboys created excitement nearly amounting to a panic while filming a scene for one of the "Universal's" latest productions.

The street was thronged with an unusually heavy traffic, and vehicles and pedestrians scooted into side streets, curbs and sidewalks before the whooping riders and their dashing mounts.

For ten blocks they raced through the busiest section of the city, flanked and followed by speeding motor cars carrying cameramen who found it difficult at the rapid pace, to keep their feet and operate their cameras at the same time.

Permission had been given for the filming of the scene on Broadway by Chief of Police Butler, and a squad of mounted officers had been detailed to ride ahead of the cowboys and clear the street for them, but the clear cow pointers passed the police horses before they had gone a block, and at the end of the ride the "cops" were so far behind that they were lost from view in the traffic.

At the finish of the ride the thirty members of the company were the guests of Harry Carey, their leading man, at a luncheon at one of the fashionable cafes in the city where the Universal rough-riders naturally attracted a great deal of attention.

NAVY YARD INDUSTRIAL STAFF DINE

The Industrial Department of the navy yard held a get-together meeting at the new theatre at the yard on Wednesday evening and also enjoyed a venison supper.

The affair was arranged by the officers of the industrial department with the entire arrangements left in the hands of Chief Boutswain W. L. Hill, U. S. N., who had everything letter perfect. The supper was prepared by the yard chef and served by mess attendants.

The vaudeville acts from the Colonial theatre gave a very clever performance during the supper, the new stage allowing them to give their regular act, the naval orchestra furnishing the music.

The following was the menu:

Olives	Celery
Venison Stew
Cold Boiled Ham
Potato Salad
Tarker House Rolls	Coffee
Ice Cream	Cake
Cigars

Industrial Manager L. S. Adams acted as toastmaster and he called on Rear Admiral Douch, U. S. N., the Commandant who congratulated the men on the spirit under which they were working and on the way that the work was being carried on. Safety Engineer Reusse made a short address and Chief Boutswain Hill also spoke. Shop Superintendent R. P. Schlabach was called on at the request of the men and he delivered one of his short but interesting talks.

The entire affair was a great success. There were about 140 present including all of the officers of the industrial department, the master and foremen and the quartermen and leading men and the office force.

FUND MAY REACH $9000

The Red Triangle fund in this city is likely to reach the $9,000 mark, for Wednesday evening it was $8700 with more to come.

The navy yard turned in an additional $300 on Wednesday and it is expected that there will be some more from this committee. The yard up to the present time has furnished practically $1500.

The women's committee have also turned in more money, having gone well over their quota and they may reach almost as much as the navy yard employees.

The national subscription for this fund far exceeds anything anticipated for the last figures available were over $50,000,000.
